Meeting Notes:

Community Spotlight: Maintaining Brain Health as We Age – Allyson Lehrich, LCSW and President of Cognitive Care Solutions

- Introduction to cognitive fitness in relation to MCI and Dementia
- Leading medical risks related to onset of Dementia symptoms
- Being mindful of the modifiable risk factors related to Dementia
- Importance of variety, degree of difficulty of cognitive exercises

Introduction to 2020 Vision – LeeAnn Mandarinino

- Goals for 2020:
 1. Empower persons with Dementia and their caregivers to live healthier lives
 2. Engage community and stakeholders in DFSN activities and advocacy efforts
 3. Create a dynamic DFNV website
- Overview of RDAD-KC program – Kate Ingalsby
 - Innovative program with overwhelmingly favorable results – potential program inspiration to support first goal.
 - Group Brainstorm – LeeAnn Mandarinino & Kate Ingalsby
 - Members present suggested a variety of ideas for program modules
 - Ruth – Music Therapy in collaboration with CC PT department
 - Francesca – provide information in terms that anyone can understand (i.e. no medical terms, etc.)
 - Dennis – Develop some type of group study model specific to dementia. Something uplifting and similar to a dementia-friendly bible study. Suggested Chuck as a possible facilitator.
 - Paige – include Trauma Recovery Yoga (TRY), chair yoga, or other adaptive at-home exercise.
 - Chuck – Include people with dementia in the videos. This will likely encourage more people living with dementia to attend meetings/participate in DFSN.
 - Riley – Collaboration between nutritionist and chef to develop a healthy recipe and step-by-step instructions (for distribution/download), then demonstrate how to cook the meal in the video.
 - Consider using ingredients distributed in USDA commodities for rural areas (either in all videos, or another video)
 - Barbara – find a community partner willing to host a game night. Facilitator could demonstrate how to play the game. Caregivers and patients both welcome.

- Carrie – Incorporate spiritual wellness. www.Spiritualeldercare.com has many examples of spiritual services of all denominations, and specific to persons living with dementia.
- Jeff – Adaptive health & fitness, potentially starting with a gate/balance assessment.
- Paige – Incorporate pet therapy and intergenerational music therapy into videos.
 - Ruth – Possibly partner with existing program at Children’s Discovery Museum
- (Name?)- Meet up group to promote socialization activities for persons with dementia (arts & crafts, etc.)
- Verla – Potentially incorporate some existing programs into the videos (I.e. Conversations to remember), or similar models to explore virtual travel.
- Allyson – Dementia Friendly spa day for caregivers and persons with dementia
- Jackie – Connect with community partners who already have calendars of events and collaborate – Healthcare Partners
- Jeanne – Optum Centers are available as well. Additionally, gardening and harvesting – build community gardens, learn about healthy foods, and meet up for harvesting.

Social Media Update – Riley Franco

- Overview of social media survey on website.
- Introduction to Social Media Initiative:
 1. Share perspectives of dementia in daily life - post photos and captions related to DFSN and these hashtags:
 - #MondayMantra – Something you do for or say to yourself to keep a positive perspective; a piece of advice/encouragement you’d like to share with other persons with dementia or caregivers (i.e. notes of encouragement, positivity, etc.)
 - #TravelTuesday – Photos of your travels! No matter your role in the care partnership, we want to see your world outside the home - trips near and far (to another city or to the grocery store), travel tips and tricks, etc.
 - #WednesdayWisdom – share pieces of wisdom you’ve acquired throughout your journey; your best tips for others.
 - #ThankfulThursday – shout outs to DFSN members sharing the DF initiative; a special thank you to a care partner; etc.
 - #FridayFact – facts about specific dementias, resources, etc.
 - #SelfieSaturday – What are you doing this weekend? Share a selfie! Whether it’s a self-care activity alone or a group pic with your care team, we want to see your weekend adventures!
 - #SafetySunday – Share your safety tips and resources for patients and families
 2. Content can also be emailed to DFSN at dfninfo@dementiafriendlynevada.org
